THEME DAY ON WORK ENVIRONMENT AT AU

The Main Occupational Health and Safety Committee (HAMU) is holding a virtual theme day about work environment on 10 June 2021 from 9.00-12.00 on Zoom

All members of AU’s occupational health and safety organisation are invited to HAMU’s virtual theme day about work environment on 10 June.

The aim of the theme day is to provide inspiration for the daily occupational health and safety efforts and to strengthen the collaboration on the good working life. When you participate in the theme day, it counts as part of your supplementary occupational health and safety training.

The day will be opened by the rector, and there will be presentations about workplace culture and about the new ministerial order concerning psychological work environment. Additionally, it will be possible to participate in one of five different sessions with the titles:

- The occupational health and safety organisation – responsibilities and roles
- Initiatives aimed at improving well-being at work
- How to work at AU in the future - after the Covid-19 pandemic
- How to prevent offensive behaviour
- Covid-19: Returning to the workplace

Members of the liaison committee organisation who are interested in the event’s themes are also welcome to sign up for the theme day.

See the programme for the event and sign up at the theme day’s website.

The deadline for registration is 1 June 2021.

Screen ergonomics

Online course for occupational health and safety representatives

The course will focus on the lay-out of home and office workstations, and on exercises as well.

The aim of the course is to give occupational health and safety representatives a thorough introduction to the principles of workstation lay-out, so they can help colleagues minimise the physical strains in connection with screen work.
The online course will last 2 hours including questions.
